PREFACE

This report presents statistics on the number of inhabitants of the State, its counties, and minor civil divisions (townships, etc.). In addition, separate figures are also presented for urban places, wards of cities of 5,000 or more, and other areas of the State. These data are based upon tabulations from the Seventeenth Decennial Census of the population of the United States, its Territories, and possessions conducted as of April 1, 1950. Provision for the Seventeenth Decennial Census was made in the act providing for the Fifteenth and subsequent decennial censuses which was approved on June 18, 1929.

The major portion of the information compiled from the Census of Population of 1950 will appear in Volume I, Number of Inhabitants, and in Volume II, Characteristics of the Population. This report is a preprint of Chapter 38 (Pennsylvania) of Volume I, which is to present, in a single publication, statistics on the number of inhabitants for each State.

The materials presented here will also appear as Chapter A of Part 38 (Pennsylvania) of Volume II. Volume II will comprise a series of separately published parts, one for each State and a summary for the United States. The use of separate parts makes the basic materials on characteristics of the population for a given State available to the public in a single publication. Within the part for a State, Chapter A will recapitulate the statistics on the number and distribution of the population within a State; Chapter B will present statistics on the general characteristics of the population of the various political subdivisions of the State, such as counties, incorporated places, and the like; and Chapter C will present data on the detailed characteristics of the population of the larger areas within the State, such as cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more and standard metropolitan areas.

The materials presented here were prepared under the supervision of Howard G. Brunsman, Chief, Population and Housing Division, and Dr. Henry S. Shryock, Jr., Assistant Chief for Population Statistics, by Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, Chief, Demographic Statistics Section, and Charles P. Brinkman, Chief, Population Distribution Unit; the compilation of the statistics was under the direction of Robert B. Voight, Assistant Chief for Operations. The collection of the information on which these statistics are based was under the supervision of Lowell T. Galt, Chief, Field Division. The geographic work, including the delineation of special types of urban territory and the preparation of maps, was under the supervision of Clarence E. Batschelet, Chief, Geography Division.

Housing statistics for census tracts are to be included in the Population reports on census tracts.

PENNSYLVANIA

Number of Inhabitants

The State.—Pennsylvania was one of the Thirteen Original States. With the purchase of a small tract of land in its northwestern corner from the Federal Government in 1792, Pennsylvania assumed its present boundaries. Its population on April 1, 1950, according to the Seventeenth Census, was 10,498,012. The State has a land area of 45,045 square miles. In 1950 there was an average of 233.1 inhabitants per square mile as compared with an average of 219.8 in 1940. Among the States, Pennsylvania ranked third in population and thirty-second in land area.

Pennsylvania had a population of 434,373 in 1790 (table 1). In 1950, 160 years later, its population was more than 24 times as large. Of the numerical increase of 10,063,639 over the 160-year period, 5,867,742 was experienced between 1790 and 1900. The 1900 population of 6,302,115 was more than 14 times the population in 1790. The largest numerical increase and most rapid rate of growth in the twentieth century came between 1900 and 1910. The gain of 1,362,996 for the decade was at the rate of 21.6 percent. The numerical increase of 597,832 between 1940 and 1950 represented an increase of 6.0 percent over the 1940 population of 9,900,180.

Usual place of residence.—According to usual Census practice, which dates back to 1790, each person enumerated in the 1950 Census was counted as an inhabitant of his usual place of residence or usual place of abode, which is generally construed to mean the place where he lives and sleeps most of the time. This place is not necessarily the same as his legal residence, voting residence, or domicile, although, in the vast majority of cases, these different bases of classification would be identical.

In the application of this rule, persons were not always counted as residents of the places in which they happened to be found by the census enumerators. Persons in places where guests usually pay for quarters (hotels, etc.) were enumerated on the night of April 11, and those whose usual place of residence was elsewhere were allocated to their homes. Visitors found staying in private homes, however, were not ordinarily interviewed there. Information on persons away from their usual place of residence was obtained from other members of their families, landladies, etc. If an entire family was expected to be away during the whole period of the enumeration, information on it was obtained from neighbors. A matching process was used to eliminate duplicate reports for persons who reported for themselves while away and were also reported by their families at home.

Persons in the armed forces quartered on military installations were enumerated as residents of the States, counties, and minor civil divisions in which their installations were located. Members of their families were enumerated where they actually resided. In the 1950 Census, college students living away from home were considered residents of the communities in which they were residing while attending college, rather than as persons temporarily absent from their parental homes as was the practice in 1940. In 1950 the crews of vessels of the American Merchant Marine in harbors of the United States were counted as part of the population of the ports in which their vessels were berthed on April 1, 1950. In 1940 such persons were treated as part of the population of the port from which the vessel operated. Inmates of institutions, who ordinarily live there for long periods of time, were counted as inhabitants of the place in which the institution was located; whereas patients in general hospitals, who ordinarily have short stays, were counted at, or allocated to, their homes. All persons without a usual place of residence were counted where they were enumerated.

Urban and rural population.—The 1950 urban population of Pennsylvania comprised 7,403,036 persons, or 70.5 percent of the population of the State (table 1). This population was living in the 383 urban places in the State and in other territory included in the urban-fringe areas of the 11 urbanized areas entirely within the State and the urban-fringe areas of the Pennsylvania parts of the Philadelphia and Trenton, N. J., Urbanized Areas. More than three-fourths of the urban population was living in the urbanized areas in the State (table 2).

The rural population of Pennsylvania comprised 3,094,976 persons, or 29.5 percent of the population of the State. Of the rural population, 470,286 persons, or 15.2 percent, were living in the 184 incorporated and 122 unincorporated places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants (table 2).

Urban definition.—Under the urban definition established for use in the 1950 Census, the urban population comprises all persons living in (a) places of 2,500 inhabitants or more incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns,¹ and villages; (b) the densely settled urban fringe, including both incorporated and unincorporated areas, around cities of 50,000 or more; and (c) unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more outside any urban fringe. The remaining population is classified as rural. According to the urban definition used in previous censuses, the urban population comprises all persons living in incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and areas (usually minor civil divisions) classified as urban under special rules relating to population size and density.

In both definitions, the most important component of the urban territory is the group of incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more. A definition of urban territory restricted to such places, however, would exclude a number of equally large and densely settled places, merely because they were not incorporated places. Under the old definition, an effort was made to avoid some of the more obvious omissions by the inclusion of the places urban under special rules. Even with these rules, however, many large and closely built-up places were excluded from the urban territory. To improve the situation in the 1950 Census, the Bureau of the Census set up, in advance of enumeration, boundaries for urban-fringe areas around cities of 50,000 or more and for unincorporated places outside urban fringes. All the population residing in urban-fringe areas and in unincorporated places of 2,500 or more is classified as urban according to the 1950 definition. (Of course, the incorporated places of 2,500 or more are urban in their own right.) Consequently, the special rules of the old definition are no longer necessary.

According to the new urban definition, the 1950 urban population of Pennsylvania consisted of the following components: (1) The 6,583,862 inhabitants of the 362 incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more; (2) the 78,738 inhabitants of the 21 specially delineated unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more; and (3) 740,436 persons living in other territory in the urban-fringe areas of the Allentown-Bethlehem, Altoona, Erie, Harrisburg, Johnstown, Lancaster, Pittsburgh, Reading, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, and York Urbanized Areas and in the Pennsylvania parts of the urban-fringe areas of the Philadelphia and Trenton, N. J., Urbanized Areas. There were 11 townships in the State that were classified as urban under special rule under the old urban definition. The urban population according to the old definition, therefore, consisted of the 6,583,862 inhabitants of the 362 incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and the 323,131 inhabitants of the places urban under special rule.

The following table presents the 1950 and 1940 population of the 11 townships classified as urban under special rule and the classification of the 1950 population by urban and rural residence according to the new definition:

Township	County	1950			1940
		Total	In unincorporated territory in urbanized areas	In rural territory
Total		323,131	307,125	16,006	252,536
Ablington	Montgomery	28,988	25,403	3,585	20,857
Cheltenham	Montgomery	22,854	22,854		19,082
Hanover	Delaware	15,051	13,706	1,345	16,439
Harrison	Allegheny	15,116	13,933	1,183	13,161
Haverford	Delaware	39,641	38,732	909	27,594
Lower Merion	Montgomery	48,745	42,582	5,563	39,566

Stowe	Allegheny	12,210	11,775	435	12,577
Upper Darby	Delaware	84,951	84,191	760	66,883

As shown in the table, 307,125 of the inhabitants of the 11 places urban under special rule were classified as urban under the new definition by virtue of residence in urban-fringe areas. The remaining 16,006 were classified as rural. On the other hand, the 78,738 inhabitants of the 21 unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and 433,311 additional persons in the urban-fringe areas were included in the rural population according to the old definition. The net gain in the urban population which resulted from the change in definition, therefore, is 496,043.

Although the Bureau of the Census has employed other definitions in the course of its history, the statistics on the population by urban and rural residence for the years 1790 to 1940 are shown in accordance with the 1940 definition. The 1950 statistics are shown in accordance with both the new and old definitions.

Trends of urban and rural population.—Trends in the urban and rural population can be examined only on the basis of the old urban definition. On this basis, the urban population more than doubled, rising from 3,448,610 in 1900 to 6,906,993 in 1950 (table 1). Both the largest numerical increase and most rapid rate of growth came in the decade 1900 to 1910. The numerical increase of 1,182,059 for this decade was the largest in the history of the State and accounted for more than one-third of the increase over the 50-year period. The increase of 320,116 between 1940 and 1950 represented a gain of 4.9 percent over the 1940 urban population of 6,586,877. Two of the incorporated places of 10,000 inhabitants or more in the State in 1950—Bethel and West

Mifflin boroughs—were incorporated in 1949 and 1942, respectively. Of the other 94 incorporated places of 10,000 or more in the State, 51 shared in the increase in the urban population between 1940 and 1950 (table 4). There were 1,615,313 persons living in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in 1900; by 1950 there were 2,748,411 persons living in these two cities (table 3). The proportion of the population of the State living in urban territory increased from 54.7 to 65.8 percent over the 50-year period.

The rural population of Pennsylvania increased from 2,853,505 to 3,591,019 between 1900 and 1950 (table 1). The largest numerical increase and most rapid rate of growth over the 50-year period was experienced in the decade 1940 to 1950. The numerical increase of 277,716 for the decade represented an increase of 8.4 percent over the 1940 rural population of 3,313,303. The rates of increase in the rural population for the two decades from 1930 to 1950 exceeded those for the urban population. As a result, the proportion of the population of the State living in rural territory, which had declined from 45.3 to 32.2 percent between 1900 and 1930, rose to 34.2 percent in 1950.

Counties.—The counties in Pennsylvania ranged in size from Forest with a population of 4,944 to Philadelphia with a population of 2,071,605. Between 1940 and 1950, 41 of the 67 counties in Pennsylvania increased in population as against 58 in the previous decade. The most rapid rate of increase was experienced in Bucks County, which gained at the rate of 34.3 percent. The largest numerical increase was recorded in Philadelphia County, which had an increase of 140,271. Two additional counties—Allegheny and Delaware—had increases in excess of 100,000. The combined gain of these three counties accounted for nearly three-fifths of the population gain of the State.

Minor civil divisions.—To the primary political divisions into which counties are divided, the Bureau of the Census applies the general term "minor civil division." The minor civil divisions in Pennsylvania are the townships, cities, boroughs, and one town (Bloomsburg). Philadelphia city is coextensive with Philadelphia County. The Cornplanter Indian Reservation in Warren County is classified as a primary division. There are no subdivisions of the minor civil divisions.

Table 6 shows statistics on the population of each county by minor civil divisions for the last three censuses. The population of each unincorporated place is shown in italics under the population of the minor civil division in which it is located. When an incorporated place lies in more than one county or an unincorporated place lies in more than one minor civil division, the population of the several parts is shown in table 6 in the appropriate counties and minor civil divisions, and each part is designated by "part." Figures on the total population of such places are given in table 7. Unincorporated places are designated by "uninc." Changes between the 1940 Census and the 1950 Census in the boundaries of the areas listed are shown in notes to table 6. For changes in boundaries prior to the 1940 Census, see reports of the Sixteenth Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 913-923, and reports of earlier censuses.

Incorporated and unincorporated places.—In 1950 there were 990 incorporated places in Pennsylvania (cities, boroughs, and one town—Bloomsburg) and 143 unincorporated places of 1,000 inhabitants or more. The 628 incorporated places of fewer than 2,500 inhabitants had 583,082 of the 7,166,944 persons living in incorporated places. Of the 259,034 persons in unincorporated places, 180,296 were in the 122 places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants. The incorporated places ranged in size from Livermore borough with a population of 57 to Philadelphia city with a population of 2,071,605.

Political units recognized as incorporated places in the 1950 Census are those which are incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns, and villages, with the exception that towns are not recognized as incorporated places in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin.

The Bureau of the Census has delineated boundaries for the thickly settled urban fringe around cities of 50,000 or more and has also delineated boundaries for unincorporated places of 1,000 or more which are densely settled population centers without corporate limits. Although there are unincorporated places within the urban fringe, it was not feasible to establish boundaries for such places and therefore they are not identified as separate places.

The count of urban places in the 1950 Census comprises all incorporated places of 2,500 or more regardless of location and unincorporated places of 2,500 or more which are located outside the urban-fringe areas. Incorporated places of less than 2,500 which lie in the urban fringe are not recognized as urban places.

Urbanized areas.—There were 11 urbanized areas entirely within Pennsylvania and 2 urbanized areas partly within the State. Of the 5,682,871 persons in Pennsylvania living in urbanized areas, 3,717,672 were living in the 13 central cities, and 1,965,199 in the urban-fringe areas. The urban-fringe areas had 1,326,679 persons in 212 incorporated places and 638,520 living in the unincorporated parts (tables 2 and 9).

Each urbanized area contains at least one city with 50,000 inhabitants or more in 1940 or according to a special census taken since 1940, and some urbanized areas contain two or more cities of 50,000. Each urbanized area also includes the surrounding closely settled incorporated places and unincorporated areas that meet the criteria listed in the section below on "Urban fringe." Thus, the territory of an urbanized area may be classified into incorporated parts and unincorporated parts. (See urbanized area maps.)

An urbanized area also may be divided into central city or cities and urban fringe as defined below.

Central cities.—Although an urbanized area may contain more than one city of 50,000 or more, not all cities of this size are necessarily central cities. The largest city of an area is always a central city. In addition, the second and third most populous cities in the area may qualify as central cities provided they have a population of at least one-third of that of the largest city in the area and a minimum of 25,000 inhabitants. The names of the individual urbanized areas indicate the central cities of the areas.

Urban fringe.—The urban fringe includes that part of the urbanized area which is outside the central city or cities. The following types of areas are embraced if they are contiguous to the central city or cities or if they are contiguous to any area already included in the urban fringe:

1. Incorporated places with 2,500 inhabitants or more in 1940 or at a subsequent special census conducted prior to 1950.
2. Incorporated places with fewer than 2,500 inhabitants containing an area with a concentration of 100 dwelling units or more with a density in this concentration of 500 units or more per square mile. This density represents approximately 2,000 persons per square mile and normally is the minimum found associated with a closely spaced street pattern.
3. Unincorporated territory with at least 500 dwelling units per square mile.
4. Territory devoted to commercial, industrial, transportation, recreational, and other purposes functionally related to the central city.

Also included are outlying noncontiguous areas with the required dwelling unit density located within $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles of the main contiguous urbanized part, measured along the shortest connecting highway, and other outlying areas within one-half mile of such noncontiguous areas which meet the minimum residential density rule.

Table 6.—POPULATION OF COUNTIES BY MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS: 1930 TO 1950

"Uninc." designates an unincorporated place. Figures for 1940 and 1930 not available for unincorporated places or places incorporated since April 1, 1940, unless given. Minor civil division figures for 1940 and 1930 do not necessarily add to county totals. Boundary changes between 1940 and 1930 given in footnotes; for changes between 1930 and 1940, see report of 16th Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 913-923, and reports of earlier censuses. Total population of a place located within more than one minor civil division or county appears in table 7.

URBANIZED AREA MAPS

The twelve urbanized areas having their central cities in Pennsylvania, for which statistics are shown in table 9, are depicted in the following maps. The shaded areas, in combination, comprise the urbanized areas. To assist in locating the exact external boundaries of the areas, each boundary feature (street segment, political boundary, or other) has been assigned a number. The boundary segments thus numbered are shown on the map and the features to which they apply are presented in the following key.
